TRUFPHONE No. 12:

Hongkong, March 15th, 1889. THE route of the Tonquin railway projected by the Marquis DE Mones is one which has hitherto escaped attention. In the north of Tonquin is a small river called by the FOURTEEN THOUSAND AND SIX HUNDRED Courrier d'Haiphong the Song Tien-yen, and marked on the official map as the Tame river. The estuary of this river, instead of forming a mud delta, is an arm of the sea with a sandy bottom and a depth of water of five fathoms. Here, according to the Marquis DE MORES' scheme, is to be the future port of Tonquin. Following the course of the river, 125 miles of railway would reach the point on the frontier where the Son-ki-kong enters China, near Lungchow, which is on an affluent of the Canton river, and another 60 miles would reach a point on the frontier near Pe-se-ting. A careful commercial survey of this part of China was made in 1885-86 by Mr. F. S. A. BOUENE, of Her Majesty's Consular service, and from his report and the route sketches by which it is illustrated some idea may be formed of the prospects of a railway touching the Ewangei province at the points mentioned. First, as to Lungchew. This town, which is one of the frontier trading stations opened by the Franco-Chinese treaty, is connected with Nauning-fu by a stream called the Tso Chiang. The commercial capabilities of this stream, Mr. Bourne says, desorve careful study, because along it, according to his constantly required by residents and those judgment, lies the only route worth mentioning between Kwang-si and Tonquin. From Nanning it is navigated by good sized boats as far as Taiping-fu, and by smaller boats as far as Lungchow, the journey from Nanning occupying from twelve to eighteen days, and the journey in the opposite direction from six to nine days. The trade on the Teo Chiang consists of cotton yarn, piece goods, and Canton goods, in small quantities, up; and timber, beans, rice, staranise, and drugs, down. In considering the trading facilities secured by the French by their treaty, Mr. Bourne compares the journey from Haiphong to Nanning with that from Pakhoi to the same place, -howing that while the next outward English mail, left Singapore the former occupies about sixteen days, the at 6 a m yesterday for this port. latter can be accomplished in six days by one route, and in thirteen by another longer but easier route. He also remarks that the Tso Chiang is very dangerous, on account of opening their show in a tent at Bowrington. It its rapids, boats being frequently wrecked is to be a variety entertainment, particulars of so that valuable cargoes are not likely to take that route. He closes his remarks on this part of the country with the following ranged that a post and telegraph office should be significant sentences:-"If a railway were constructed in Tonquin to the Chinese Chauffour defrayed the cost of the buildings and border above Lungchow these conditions The cable, we learn from t. Courrier d'Haibore half the cost of the ca. Pakhoi to Nanning than from Haiphong to the border above Lungchow. Unless the party from Government House took the opportunity while at Kowloon yesterday for the Flower Viceroy of Canton is foolish enough to sleep Show of visiting the premises of the Hongkong while the Resident in Tonquin is working, and Kowloon Wharf and Godown Company the trade of Pakhoi can scarcely be affected The party were cond-sted through the immense by the new route, which cannot do more Hughes, and express the needs as highly under present conditions than supply foreign pleased with their visit. goods to the poor Shans who inhabit the western border of Kwang-si." A railway Amy Sherwin Opera Company's first perforfrom Tienyen did not apparently enter into mance at the Theatre Royal, City Hall, has Mr. BOURNE's calculations, but there is still been postponed from the 19th to the 21st inst. room for a line from Pakhoi. Will the -"The Amy Sherwin Opera Company, after Viceroy of Canton take Mr. Botene's hint? | the most successful season ever known in Sings A railway from Pakhoi was actually apoken of as being in contemplation some time age, operas in Hongkong." but if the idea was ever seriously entertained it seems now to have dropped out of sight. Lungchow is not the only objective point of the proposed railway. The line is to be extended to Po-se-ting, which is also and wear the Star of the Third Grade of the

A Ceylon contemporary states that the Messageries Maritimes steamer Oxus when nearing Colombo early on the morning of the 17th February received a severe shock, it being at first supposed that she had run on a rock: but as no damage was done it was concluded that she had run across some large fish. It is a curious coincidence that on 28th October, 1887, the M. PRESENTATION BY THE HONGKONG VOLUNTEERS. A most enjoyable evening was spent at the Major Tripp, on the are of your departure, I have been asked to address you on behalf of the Corps, of which I am an honorary member, and on behalf of the residents generally. You have done well for the community of Hongkong and success as artillerists, and I think even our The little difficulty with regard to the concert friends of the regular army " - will admit that lock for assistance, and in such a time it would men ready to do their duty if called upon. (Applause). A great deal of the credit for this efficiency doubtless is owing to the officers under which, both as regards officers and men, is worthy of every praise and regard I am not saving too much. (Hear, hear). So much for the Corps. For yourself, I may say you are "mine own familiar friend." (Laughter). I have known you now for a great many years, and I have known you as one who has been connected with every good and useful movement in the Colony. (Hear, hear.) The regret which we feel at parting with you must, I think, be almost equalled by the regret you feel at parting with us. It is unfortunate that your health compels you to leave this place, and we can only hope sincerely that the climate in the place where you are about to reside will thoroughly rostore you. I am certain that no other reason would induce ron to leave us. We have met this evening to present you with a testimonial, something to remember us by when you are far from Hongkong. Unfortunately it is not ready for presentation at the moment, but it will follow you to Shanghai, . And it will not follow you alone, but will be accompanied by the best wishes of the community of Hongkong and the hope that it will serve as a reminder in future years of the many friends you leave behind you here. Major

Tripp, on behalf of the Corps, I have the pleasure to wish you, in your future career, every success and every happiness. (Lond applause.) Major TRIPP, in reply, said-Mr. Ryrie, ladies. and gentlemen, and brother Volunteers, as Mr. Ryrie has remarked, I can assure you it is with leolings of deep regret that I am here to-night to bid you good-bye. I have been in Hongkong now, on and off, for over 28 years, and I have been connected with the Volunteer movement since 1863, and you can therefore imagine how I feel we have already given, built and engined by at leaving this place. Still I am proud to have had under me as officers and men, the Volunteer Corps as it now stands before us. Of course as Volunteers the officers have a good deal to contend with. You, gentlemen, give up your time the one from Tienyen to Po-se, which are to mile, the average speed attained being over 16 and amusements and turn out to drill. It is a duty and not a pleasant one at first, still you make a sacrifice and do it. Still the time Messrs. I have always looked upon the Volunteers as a great movement, and England may think herself lucky she has her Volunteers to fall back on. The Volunteers in England are now a standing army, and England can feel safe as long as she has this army to defend her shores. And I may say the same of Hongkong, as long as we have a Corps like the present to form a nuclous, at any rate, of any body that may turn out afterwards. Gentlemen, I wish you all

Cheers were then given for Major Tripp and Hon. P. Ryrie.

The presentation being over, an open air concert then took place, the Band of the Regiment playing various selections. Gunner Laing prened the programme with a spirited rendering "The Stormfiend," Mr. J. D. Lapraik made his first public appearance in Hongkong and was well received. His "Dream of the Al bert Hall" and "Two Hundred Years age were loudly redemanded. In the comic line Mr. Lapraik shared the honours of the evening with Gunner Beiley, who was equally successful in his singing of "Later on." This gentleman also gave evidence of some vocal talent in the singing of a patrictic song "Old England and the New." One of the most finished performances was Mr. Osborne's singing of The Quaker," while Gunner Cooper gave a fair rendering of the nautical song "Yo Ho. THE PUBLIC HEALTH OR-DINANCE.

The following is the letter of the Acting mark made at a tiffin given by our new Sanitary Superintendent on the above subject read at the meeting of the Saultary Board on Wednesday:---SANITARY BOARD OFFICE.

> 12th March, 1889. Sir.-I have the honour to hand you the enclosed draft Bill to amend the Public Health Ordinance 1887. 2.—The Bill. for the sake of convenience, has

Part I Preliminary. Part II. Compulsory notification of infectious Part III. Provision as to dealing with infections disease Part IV. Provision as to including diseases:

not specified in the Ordinance. Part V. Legal Proceedings. 3.—In framing this draft Bill, the Public Health Act 1875 (38 and 39 Vic., Ch. 55) and certain clauses, sanctioned in a report dated the 9th of June, 1882, by a Select Committee of the House of Commons to whom were referred certain private Bills relating to Police and Sanitary Regulations, have been taken as a guide. 4 -An amendment of the Public Health Ordinance (No. 24 of 1887) is necessary in view the Colonial Secretary's letter of the 10th of January, 1889, (No. 35) that certain measures. passed by the Board on the 3rd of that month under sub-section 19 of section 13 of the Ordin-

Ordinance the Board can, when the Colony is threatened with or affected by any formidable epidemic and after certain sections of the Ordinance have been proclaimed by the Governor, only he applied when it was absolutely necessary to place the Colony in a state of siege. 6.-The Ordinance, however, beyond the sections referred to in Schedule A of the accompanying draft, contains no provision for the Board dealing with infections disease in ordinary times, that is, in the absence of an epidemic The enactment now under notice has therefore been framed with a view of supplying this want. 7.—Part 1. (Preliminary) deals with :--Section 1. The short title.

Section 2. Division of the Ordinance into. Section 3. Extent of repeal of Ordinance 24 of 1887, with a saving clause in-respect of existing By-laws. Section 4. Definitions.

sions of the above sections. Provisions similar to these are to be found in the By-laws passed by the Board on the 20th December, 1888, under section 13 of the Public Health Ordinance. I have included them in this draft amendment, as I understand that such powers would be more in order if conferred by the Ordinance itself rather than by By-laws made thereunder.

9.—I would invite special attention to section Article 4 of the Board's By-laws under subsection 24 of section 13 throws the responsibility of notifying, when the case is not under the care of a medical practitioner, on the resident nearest male adult relative of the vatient. The By-law assumes 1st, that the patient has a relative 2nd, that the said relative is of the male sex, and 3rd, that the said male relative resides in the same house as the patient. This, I submit, does not meet the requirements of the Colony. In many instances, especially in the case of small-pox, infectious disease coours in persons who have no relatives in the Colony, and whom By-law No. 4 does not affect. This remark ap-Two verbenss-1, A. F. Alves; 2, A. Johnston; 3, plies to inmates of hotels, brothels, and such like places, where obviously it is highly necessary to Two petunias-1, D. Nowrojee; 2, H. ng with infectious diseases :-Sec. 11. Gives the Board power to order disinfection of premises. Sec. 12. Gives the Sanitary Roard power to disinfect premises, destroy articles and make compensation.

Sec. 13. Claims for compensation. Sec. 14. Provision of means of disinfection.

proper lodging to hospital by order of Magistrata. Sec. 17. Penalty on exposure of infected persons and things. See. 18. Penalty on failing to provide for disinfection of public conveyances. Sec. 29. Penalty on letting houses in which infected persons have been lodging.

Sec. 20. Penalty on persons letting houses making false statements as to infectious disease. With but one exception, precisely similar provisions to the above are to be found in the Public Health Act of 1875, the wording of which, in adapting them to local requirements. has been followed as closely as possible. Section 13 does not occur in the 1 nglish Act. 11 .- Part IV. provides for the Board bringing within the Ordinance or any part thereof those diseases which are not specifically mentioned in the Ordinance and to which it may be necessary to apply some, if not all, of the provisions contained therein:

Sec. 21. Sanitary Board may by resolution doclare other diseases to be within the foregoing provisions. Sec. 22. Public notice of order to be given. Sec. 23. Concerning avidence of publicity. Those three sections have been framed closely on the lines of the recommendations of the

Select Committee of the House of Commons in the report of the 2nd of June, 1882. 12.—Part V (Legal Proceedings) concerns penalties, etc.

THE LOSS OF THE "GLENCOE."

On the 4th February the Glasgow barque Largo Bay, bound from London for Auckland, came into collision off Beachy Head with a large steamer, and the latter vessel foundared within a few minutes. So tremendous was the force of the collision that the bows of the barque were stove in, her howsprit and jibboom, with all the gear attached, together with the maintopgallant mast and the mizzentopmast head, were all curried away, and the foremest was broken off short er no one at home or only a servant or two, at the deck, killing an apprentice as it fell. AFFAIRS AT BHAMO. MANDALAY, 23rd February. Advices from Bhamo state the column under Captain South in pursuit of the Shan reb is returned to Sawadie on 18th, the rebels dispersing and retiring to the hills beyond Sin without further fighting. On 20th, news having reached Captain Smith that 200 Chinese marauders had entered Mansee, 14 miles east of Bhamo, the column with a reinforcement of 200 troops from Bhame, with 2 guns, started next morning to try and surround the Chinese but failed, the latter having already decamped, after helping themselves to supplies and valuables. The troops are returning to Bhama. All these rebel bands are under the Manpoon pretender and his brother the Kawlin Prince, another pretender, now with Poukan, the former Sawbwa of Mohlaing, Moung Kan Hlaing and lung Min formerly of Shoay Koo are also leaders. All these matters have tended to produce considerable excitement in Bhamo. The Chinese have asked for a guard for the bazear
